

ChatGPT Prompts for HR Managers & Recruiters

25 Copy-Paste Templates | Hiring · Interviews · Performance Management · HR Admin

STATE EMPLOYMENT LAW NOTICE (applies to termination letters, PIPs, and FMLA documents):

Employment laws vary significantly by state. Documents in this pack — particularly termination letters, Performance Improvement Plans (PIPs), and leave notices — must comply with the specific laws of the state where the employee works.

States with stricter employment regulations require extra attention:

- California: Final pay due same day as termination; WARN Act thresholds lower than federal; at-will exceptions broader; specific PIP and documentation standards apply.
- New York: Wage Theft Prevention Act notice requirements; NYC additional protections; specific timing for final pay by termination type.
- New Jersey, Massachusetts, Washington, Illinois: Additional notice, pay timing, and anti-discrimination protections that may exceed federal defaults.

Always have termination letters and PIPs reviewed by an HR attorney or employment counsel familiar with the applicable state's laws before issuing to employees. This pack provides drafting assistance only — not legal advice.

CATEGORY 1 — Recruiting & Job Posting (7 Prompts)

Prompt 1 — Job Description Generator

You are an experienced HR professional. Write a compelling, inclusive job description for an open position.

Details:

- Job Title: [Job Title]
- Company Name: [Company Name]
- Department: [Department]
- Location: [City, State / Remote / Hybrid]
- Employment Type: [Full-time / Part-time / Contract]
- Salary Range: $[Min]-$[Max] per year (or "competitive, based on experience" if not disclosing)
- Reports To: [Title of Manager]

Responsibilities (list 5-8 key duties):

[List them here, e.g., "Manage daily accounts payable / Lead weekly team standups / Own the quarterly reporting process"]

Requirements (must-have):

[List 3-5 required qualifications, e.g., "3+ years of experience in X / Bachelor's degree in Y / Proficiency in Z software"]

Preferred qualifications (nice-to-have):

[List 1-3 preferred items, or "none"]

Company culture in 2-3 words: [e.g., "collaborative, fast-paced, mission-driven"]

Any DEI or EEO statement to include: [Yes – use standard EEO boilerplate / No]

Write a complete job description with:

1. A compelling opening paragraph about the role and company
2. Responsibilities section (bulleted)
3. Requirements section (bulleted – separate must-have from preferred)
4. What you offer (benefits, culture, growth opportunity)
5. Standard EEO statement if requested

Tone: Professional and engaging – this should attract strong candidates, not just list requirements.

Prompt 2 — LinkedIn Outreach Message

You are a recruiter. Write a personalized LinkedIn outreach message to a passive candidate for an open role.

Details:

- Candidate Name: [First Name]
- Their Current Title: [e.g., "Senior Software Engineer at XYZ Corp"]
- Open Role: [Job Title]
- Company Name: [Company Name]
- Why this person is a good fit (be specific): [e.g., "their background in fintech and open-source contributions align with our stack" / "they have the exact industry experience we need"]
- One thing interesting about the company or role: [e.g., "we just closed a Series B" / "100% remote, $145K-$165K range" / "building a product they likely already use"]
- Your Name & Title: [Your Name, Recruiter/HR Manager at Company Name]

Write a LinkedIn outreach message that:

1. Opens with a specific, genuine reason you're reaching out to THEM (not a generic opener)
2. Briefly describes the role and one compelling detail about it
3. Keeps total length under 100 words – this is a DM, not an email
4. Ends with a low-pressure ask (e.g., "open to a quick 15-minute call this week?")

No generic phrases like "I came across your profile" without specificity. No laundry lists of company achievements. Write as a human, not a bot.

Prompt 3 — Interview Invitation Email

You are an HR professional. Write a professional and welcoming interview invitation email to send to a candidate.

Details:

- Candidate Name: [Candidate Name]
- Position: [Job Title]
- Company Name: [Company Name]
- Interview Type: [Phone screen / Video call / In-person / Panel interview]
- Interview Format: [e.g., "30-minute conversation with HR" / "45-minute technical interview followed by 30-minute culture fit with the team" / "on-site full-day loop"]
- Proposed Date(s) and Time(s): [Provide 2-3 options, e.g., "Tuesday June 10 at 2pm ET / Wednesday June 11 at 10am ET"]
- Interview Platform (if virtual): [e.g., Zoom / Google Meet / Teams / we will send a link]
- Interviewers (if sharing): [Names and titles, or "TBD"]
- What to prepare (if any): [e.g., "be ready to discuss a past project" / "no prep needed" / "bring a copy of your resume"]
- Your Name & Contact: [Your Name, Title, Email, Phone]

Write an interview invitation email that:

1. Opens with a congratulatory note (they made it to this stage)
2. Clearly states interview details: format, date/time options, platform
3. Includes a scheduling link or clear instructions to confirm
4. Gives any prep guidance
5. Expresses genuine enthusiasm about speaking with them

Subject line + full email. Warm but professional.

Prompt 4 — Offer Letter

You are an HR professional. Write a formal offer letter for a new hire.

Details:

- Candidate Name: [Full Name]
- Position: [Job Title]
- Department: [Department]
- Start Date: [Date]
- Employment Type: [Full-time / Part-time / Contract]
- Work Location: [Office address / Remote / Hybrid – describe]
- Compensation: $[Annual Salary] per year, paid [bi-weekly / semi-monthly / weekly]
- Bonus (if any): [e.g., "eligible for up to 10% annual performance bonus" or "none"]
- Benefits summary: [e.g., "health, dental, vision insurance / 401k with 4% match / 15 days PTO + 10 holidays" or "details in onboarding packet"]
- Reporting to: [Manager Name and Title]
- Offer expiration date: [Date by which candidate must accept]
- At-will employment state: [Yes / No – specify state if yes]
- Any contingencies: [e.g., "contingent on background check" / "none"]
- Signatory Name & Title: [Your Name, Title]
- Company Name & Address: [Company Name, Address]

Write a professional offer letter that:

1. Formally offers the position with all key terms stated clearly
2. Covers compensation, benefits, start date, and location
3. States the at-will employment clause (if applicable) clearly
4. Specifies any contingencies
5. Includes a signature block for both company and candidate
6. Sets a warm but professional tone – this is the start of a relationship

Full letter format (not email). Professional letterhead-style layout.

Prompt 5 — First-Round Rejection Email

You are an HR professional. Write a respectful, professional rejection email for a candidate who did not advance past the initial application or phone screen stage.

Details:

- Candidate Name: [Candidate Name]
- Position Applied For: [Job Title]
- Company Name: [Company Name]
- Reason for non-advancement (internal – do NOT include in email): [e.g., "not enough experience" / "stronger candidates in pool" / "role was put on hold"]
- Personal note to include (optional): [e.g., "they had a strong background in X, just not the right fit right now" – use for a warmer closing, or leave blank]
- Keep door open for future roles: [Yes / No]
- Your Name & Title: [Your Name, Title]

Write a rejection email that:

1. Thanks them sincerely for their time and interest
2. Communicates the decision clearly without being vague ("we've decided to move forward with other candidates")
3. Does NOT give a detailed reason (keep legally safe)
4. If keeping door open: includes a genuine invitation to apply for future roles
5. Closes warmly

Subject line + full email. Tone: Respectful and human. This person took time to apply – acknowledge that.

Prompt 6 — Post-Final-Interview Rejection Email

You are an HR professional. Write a rejection email for a candidate who completed the full interview process but was not selected.

Details:

- Candidate Name: [Candidate Name]
- Position: [Job Title]
- Company Name: [Company Name]
- How far they got: [e.g., "final round of interviews / panel interview / completed a take-home project"]
- Reason (internal only – do NOT include): [e.g., "selected another candidate with more direct experience" / "strong candidate but another person was a better culture fit"]
- Genuine positive note (optional but recommended): [e.g., "they were impressive – consider for future roles" or leave blank]
- Offer feedback: [Yes – offer a brief call / No]
- Keep door open: [Yes / No]
- Your Name & Title: [Your Name, Title]

Write a rejection email that:

1. Acknowledges the significant time and effort they invested
2. Communicates the decision directly (do not make them read three paragraphs to find out)
3. Offers a genuine, brief positive comment about their candidacy if applicable
4. Offers feedback if appropriate
5. Keeps the door open sincerely if applicable – do not say it if you don't mean it

Subject line + full email. Tone: Respectful, direct, and human. Candidates who made it to final rounds deserve more than a form letter.

Prompt 7 — Position Closed / Hiring Freeze Notice

You are an HR professional. Write an email to active candidates notifying them that a position has been closed or hiring has been paused.

Details:

- Candidate Name: [Candidate Name / or "use Dear [Candidate Name]" for a template]
- Position: [Job Title]
- Company Name: [Company Name]
- Reason (general, do not over-explain): [e.g., "we've decided to put this role on hold" / "the position has been filled internally" / "business priorities have shifted"]
- Where they were in the process: [e.g., "you recently applied" / "you completed an initial phone screen" / "you were in final rounds"]
- Re-engage option: [Yes – ask if they'd like to be considered when position reopens / No]
- Your Name & Title: [Your Name, Title]

Write a notification email that:

1. Informs them of the situation directly in the first sentence
2. Thanks them for their time and interest
3. Does not over-explain or make promises you can't keep
4. Offers to re-engage if appropriate
5. Closes with a genuine, brief positive note

Subject line + full email. Short (under 150 words). Respectful of their time.

CATEGORY 2 — Interviewing & Evaluation (6 Prompts)

Prompt 8 — Behavioral Interview Questions Generator (STAR Method)

You are an experienced HR professional. Generate a set of behavioral interview questions for a specific role using the STAR method (Situation, Task, Action, Result).

Details:

- Role: [Job Title]
- Key competencies to assess (choose 4-6): [e.g., "communication, problem-solving, leadership, adaptability, teamwork, conflict resolution, attention to detail, customer focus"]
- Seniority level: [Entry / Mid / Senior / Manager / Director]
- Industry context (if relevant): [e.g., "healthcare / tech startup / retail / finance" or "general"]
- Any specific past issues with hires in this role (if any): [e.g., "previous hires struggled with handling ambiguity" or "none"]

For each competency, write:

1. The competency being assessed (label it clearly)
2. One primary behavioral question using STAR framing ("Tell me about a time when...")
3. Two follow-up probing questions to dig deeper if the candidate gives a vague answer
4. What a strong answer looks like (1-2 sentences – the "green flags")
5. What a weak answer looks like (1-2 sentences – the "red flags")

Total: 4-6 competencies × 3 questions each. Format cleanly so the interviewer can print and use it in the room.

Prompt 9 — Reference Check Question Script

You are an HR professional. Write a reference check question script for a specific role.

Details:

- Role being hired for: [Job Title]
- Reference's likely relationship to candidate: [e.g., "former direct manager / former peer / former direct report"]
- Key areas to probe: [e.g., "work quality, reliability, how they handle pressure, collaboration, reason for leaving"]
- Any specific concern to probe carefully (optional): [e.g., "candidate mentioned a conflict with leadership" / "we noticed a short tenure at their last company" / "none"]

Write a reference check script that includes:

1. An opening script (who you are, why you're calling, permission to take notes)
2. 8-10 structured questions covering:
 - Role, responsibilities, and context (verify the resume)
 - Performance and work quality
 - How they work with others
 - How they handle stress, feedback, and adversity
 - The specific concern area (frame diplomatically)
 - Would they rehire? (the most important question – always ask this last)
3. A graceful close and thank-you

Include the exact phrasing for the "would you rehire?" question and one follow-up if the answer is hesitant. Format as a printable script.

Prompt 10 — Interview Feedback Internal Summary

You are an HR professional. Write an internal interview feedback summary memo to document a candidate evaluation.

Details:

- Candidate Name: [Candidate Name]
- Position: [Job Title]
- Interview Date: [Date]
- Interviewers present: [Names and Titles]
- Interview format: [e.g., phone / video / in-person / panel]
- Competencies assessed: [List 4-6 areas evaluated]
- Ratings per competency: [e.g., "Communication: Strong / Problem-solving: Acceptable / Culture fit: Needs discussion"]
- Overall recommendation: [Strong Hire / Hire / Hold / No Hire]
- Key strengths observed: [2-3 bullet points]
- Key concerns or gaps: [2-3 bullet points, or "none"]
- Follow-up questions for next round (if advancing): [List, or "N/A"]

Write an internal feedback memo that:

1. Documents the essentials (who, what, when)
2. Summarizes ratings per competency concisely
3. States the recommendation clearly with a brief rationale
4. Lists strengths and concerns in parallel bullet format
5. Notes next steps

Format: Memo style. 200-300 words. This will be stored in the ATS – write for future readers, not just today's team.

Prompt 11 — Candidate Comparison Summary

You are an HR professional. Write a candidate comparison summary to help a hiring team make a final decision between finalists.

Details:

- Position: [Job Title]
- Number of finalists: [2-4]

For each candidate, provide:

- Candidate Name (or use Candidate A / B / C for anonymity): [Name]
- Key strengths: [3 bullet points]
- Key concerns or gaps: [2 bullet points]
- Compensation expectation: $[Amount] or "not yet discussed"
- Availability / start date: [Date]
- Overall interviewer sentiment: [Enthusiastic / Positive / Mixed / Negative]

Recommendation (optional): [e.g., "Candidate A is the frontrunner" or "leave for team to decide"]

Write a candidate comparison document that:

1. Uses a consistent structure for each candidate so they can be compared side by side
2. Is objective and factual – no editorializing beyond the data provided
3. Surfaces the key decision point clearly (what is the actual trade-off between finalists?)
4. Includes a recommendation section (even if "discuss as a team")

Format: Clean table or parallel structured sections. This document goes to the hiring manager – make it easy to skim.

Prompt 12 — Culture Fit Interview Questions

You are an HR professional. Write a set of culture fit interview questions tailored to a company's specific values.

Details:

- Company Name: [Company Name]
- Company values or culture descriptors (3-5): [e.g., "ownership mindset, direct feedback, learning from failure, customer obsession, async-first work style"]
- Things that cause people to fail culturally at this company: [e.g., "people who need heavy structure don't thrive here" / "people who avoid conflict or give vague feedback" / "none known"]
- Role being interviewed for: [Job Title]
- Seniority: [Entry / Mid / Senior / Manager]

For each value or culture trait, write:

1. The trait being assessed
2. One interview question designed to surface whether the candidate embodies it (avoid yes/no questions)
3. One follow-up question
4. Green flag answer (what you want to hear)
5. Red flag answer (what signals a mismatch)

Total: 3-5 values × 2 questions each. Format as an interviewer guide. Remind the interviewer: these answers are data, not disqualifiers – context matters.

Prompt 13 — Second Interview Invitation Email

You are an HR professional. Write a second-round interview invitation email to send to a candidate advancing from the initial interview.

Details:

- Candidate Name: [Candidate Name]
- Position: [Job Title]
- Company Name: [Company Name]
- What the second round involves: [e.g., "a 60-minute panel interview with the hiring manager and two team leads" / "a 45-minute technical exercise followed by a debrief" / "a full-day on-site visit"]
- Interviewers (if sharing): [Names and Titles]
- Proposed date/time options: [2-3 options]
- Anything to prepare: [e.g., "prepare a 5-minute overview of a past project" / "no specific prep needed" / "we'll send a case study 48 hours before"]
- Your Name & Title: [Your Name, Title]

Write a second-round invitation email that:

1. Opens with genuine excitement that they're advancing
2. Explains the format of the second round clearly
3. Provides scheduling options or a scheduling link
4. States what (if anything) they should prepare
5. Keeps the energy positive – they're close

Subject line + full email. Warm and encouraging tone.

CATEGORY 3 — Performance Management (7 Prompts)

Prompt 14 — Annual Performance Review (Strengths Focus)

You are an HR professional or manager writing an annual performance review for an employee.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Job Title: [Job Title]
- Review Period: [e.g., January 2024 – December 2024]
- Manager Name & Title: [Your Name, Your Title]
- Overall Performance Rating: [e.g., Exceeds Expectations / Meets Expectations / Below Expectations]
- Top 3-4 accomplishments this year: [List with specifics, e.g., "led migration to new CRM – completed on time and under budget / reduced customer response time by 32%"]
- Core strengths demonstrated: [e.g., "exceptional communication, takes initiative, mentors junior team members"]
- One growth area (stated positively): [e.g., "continues to develop delegation skills as team grows"]
- Goal or development focus for next year: [e.g., "lead a cross-functional project / achieve PMP certification / take on people management responsibilities"]

Write a performance review narrative that:

1. Opens with an overall assessment statement (positive, specific)
2. Highlights 3-4 accomplishments with specific impact where possible
3. Describes core strengths with behavioral examples
4. Addresses the growth area constructively – not as a weakness, but as a next-level opportunity
5. Closes with forward-looking goals and confidence in the employee

Length: 300-400 words. Tone: Affirming, specific, professional. Avoid generic filler phrases like "great team player" without examples.

Prompt 15 — Annual Performance Review (Improvement Focus)

You are an HR professional or manager writing an annual performance review for an employee who is meeting some expectations but struggling in key areas.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Job Title: [Job Title]
- Review Period: [e.g., January 2024 – December 2024]
- Manager Name & Title: [Your Name, Your Title]
- Overall Performance Rating: [e.g., Partially Meets Expectations / Needs Improvement]
- Areas where they are performing adequately or well: [1-2 items, e.g., "consistently meets deadlines, positive attitude"]
- Performance gaps (be specific): [2-3 specific issues, e.g., "accuracy of work requires frequent correction / misses details in client-facing deliverables / struggles to work independently without close supervision"]
- Impact of the gaps: [e.g., "team spends additional time reviewing work before submission / client satisfaction scores for their accounts are below team average"]
- Previous feedback given: [e.g., "similar feedback was given at mid-year check-in on [date]" or "this is the first formal review of these issues"]
- Development plan expectation: [e.g., "a formal PIP will be initiated" / "we will create a development plan together" / "these areas will be monitored over Q1"]

Write a performance review narrative that:

1. Opens with a balanced overall statement (acknowledges positives before gaps)
2. Documents the performance gaps with specific, observable examples
3. States the impact on the team or company
4. References prior feedback (establishes a documented pattern if applicable)
5. Sets clear expectations for what improvement looks like and the next steps

Length: 300-400 words. Tone: Professional, direct, fair – not punitive. This document may be used in legal proceedings – write factually, not emotionally.

Prompt 16 — 90-Day Check-In Template

You are an HR professional or manager. Write a 90-day check-in document for a new employee to use as a structured conversation guide.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Job Title: [Job Title]
- Start Date: [Date]
- Manager Name: [Your Name]
- Meeting Date: [Date]

Write a 90-day check-in guide that includes:

SECTION 1 – For the manager to assess:

- Is the employee meeting early performance expectations? What evidence?
- What early strengths have they demonstrated?
- What gaps or concerns have emerged in the first 90 days?

SECTION 2 – Questions for the employee (ask these in the meeting):

- What aspects of the role do you feel most confident in so far?
- What has been most challenging or surprising?
- Do you have what you need to do your job well (tools, training, information, access)?
- How has the onboarding experience been? What could we have done better?
- What are your goals for the next 90 days?

SECTION 3 – Goals and agreements for the next period:

- 3 specific goals for Days 91-180 (with measurable outcomes)
- Any support, resources, or training agreed upon
- Next formal check-in date

Format as a fillable document with space for notes. Manager completes Section 1 before the meeting; Section 2 is discussed together; Section 3 is filled in together.

Prompt 17 — Performance Improvement Plan (PIP)

You are an HR professional. Write a formal Performance Improvement Plan (PIP) for an employee who is not meeting job expectations.

IMPORTANT: Review with legal counsel or HR leadership before issuing. This is a draft only.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Job Title: [Job Title]
- Department: [Department]
- Manager Name & Title: [Manager Name, Title]
- HR Representative (if applicable): [Name or "N/A"]
- Date PIP begins: [Date]
- PIP duration: [e.g., 30 / 60 / 90 days]
- Performance issues (be specific and factual – no opinions):
 - Issue 1: [Describe the specific, observable problem with dates/examples]
 - Issue 2: [If applicable]
- Expected standard of performance: [What does "meeting expectations" look like for each issue?]
- Measurable improvement goals: [Specific, verifiable targets, e.g., "zero data entry errors in client invoices for 30 consecutive days"]
- Support and resources provided: [e.g., "weekly 1:1 coaching sessions with manager / additional training on [system] / daily check-ins for the first 2 weeks"]
- Check-in schedule: [e.g., "weekly reviews every Friday at 10am"]
- Consequence if not met: [State clearly: "failure to meet the goals outlined in this PIP by [end date] may result in further disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment"]
- Signature lines: Employee / Manager / HR Representative

Write a complete PIP document that:

1. States the purpose of the PIP clearly (this is about improvement, not punishment)
2. Documents each performance issue factually with specific examples
3. States expected standards in measurable terms
4. Lists the support being provided
5. Includes the check-in schedule and consequence clause
6. Ends with signature blocks and an acknowledgment line

Format: Formal HR document. Professional, factual, zero emotional language.

Prompt 18 — Goal-Setting Session Agenda

You are an HR professional or manager. Write a structured agenda for an employee goal-setting meeting.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Manager Name: [Your Name]
- Meeting Date: [Date]
- Meeting Length: [e.g., 45 minutes / 60 minutes]
- Context: [e.g., "start of year planning / post-review goal reset / new role goal-setting"]
- Goals framework being used: [e.g., SMART goals / OKRs / informal / company-defined template]
- Business priorities for this period: [2-3 company or team priorities the goals should connect to]
- Employee's development area to address: [e.g., "build leadership skills / develop technical depth in X / improve cross-team communication" or "general growth"]

Write a meeting agenda that:

1. Opens with the purpose and desired outcome of the meeting
2. Lists agenda items with time allocated for each:
 - Review last period's performance highlights (5 min)
 - Discuss company/team priorities for the period (10 min)
 - Employee shares their proposed goals (15 min)
 - Manager input and goal refinement (10 min)
 - Development goal and support needed (5 min)
 - Summary and next steps (5 min)
3. Includes 3-4 pre-meeting questions the employee should think about beforehand
4. Closes with space for agreed goals to be documented

Format as a meeting prep email the manager sends to the employee in advance.

Prompt 19 — Employee Recognition Message

You are a manager or HR professional. Write a recognition message for an employee who went above and beyond.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- What they did specifically: [Describe the action or achievement, e.g., "stayed late for three nights to ensure the client launch went smoothly" / "solved a critical bug two hours before the product demo" / "mentored a new hire through their first difficult client call"]
- Impact of their action: [e.g., "the client signed a renewal" / "the demo succeeded and we moved to contract" / "the new hire is now fully onboarded and confident"]
- Audience for this message: [Private 1:1 / Team Slack/email shoutout / Company-wide recognition / Performance review addition]
- Tone: [Warm and personal / Formal and professional]
- Your Name & Title: [Your Name, Title]

Write a recognition message that:

1. Names the specific action (not vague praise like "great job")
2. States the impact it had
3. Connects it to a value or quality you appreciate in them
4. Is genuine, not formulaic

Short version (under 100 words) for Slack/team shoutout.

Long version (150-200 words) for 1:1 or performance record.

Write both.

Prompt 20 — Promotion Recommendation Letter

You are a manager writing a promotion recommendation letter or memo for an employee being considered for a higher-level role.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Current Title: [Current Title]
- Proposed Title: [Proposed Title]
- Promotion effective date (if decided): [Date or "pending approval"]
- How long you've managed them: [e.g., "2 years"]
- Key accomplishments that support the promotion (3-4 specifics):
[e.g., "led the Q3 product launch independently / grew their team's output by 40% / consistently received top client satisfaction scores / trained and onboarded 3 new team members"]
- How they already operate at the next level: [Specific example of next-level behavior]
- Any areas where they'll continue to grow: [Optional – keeps it credible]
- Audience: [Direct skip-level manager / HR / Promotion committee]

Write a promotion recommendation that:

1. Opens with a clear, direct recommendation statement
2. Summarizes their tenure and context
3. Presents 3-4 specific accomplishments with impact
4. Provides a concrete example of next-level behavior
5. Closes with a confident endorsement

Length: 300-400 words. Format: Professional memo or letter.

CATEGORY 4 — HR Admin & Difficult Conversations (5 Prompts)

Prompt 21 — Termination Letter

You are an HR professional. Write a formal employment termination letter.

IMPORTANT: This is a drafting tool only. All termination letters must be reviewed by HR leadership and/or legal counsel before delivery. Employment laws vary by state and jurisdiction.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Job Title: [Job Title]
- Company Name: [Company Name]
- Termination Date: [Date – this is the last day of employment]
- Reason type (do NOT over-explain in the letter):
 - [] Performance-based (after PIP / documented issues)
 - [] Layoff / reduction in force (no fault of employee)
 - [] Misconduct / policy violation
 - [] End of contract / at-will
- Final pay: [e.g., "final paycheck will be issued on [date] per [state] law" / "direct deposited on next regular pay date"]
- Benefits end date: [e.g., "health benefits continue through end of month" or "end on termination date"]
- COBRA: [e.g., "COBRA information will be mailed to your home address" or "N/A"]
- Return of company property: [e.g., "please return laptop and badge by [date/method]" or "a separate email will follow"]
- Severance (if any): [Amount and terms, or "none"]
- Confidentiality/non-compete reminder: [e.g., "remind of signed NDA / non-compete" or "N/A"]
- Contact for questions: [HR contact name and email]
- Signatory: [HR Manager / CEO / Manager Name and Title]

Write a termination letter that:

1. States the termination and effective date in the first sentence – no burying the lead
2. Gives a brief, factual reason (one sentence – do not over-explain)
3. Covers all logistics: final pay, benefits, property return, severance if applicable
4. References applicable agreements (NDA, non-compete) without being threatening
5. Provides a contact for questions
6. Maintains a professional, respectful tone throughout

Format: Formal business letter. No emotional language. Every sentence should be legally defensible.

Prompt 22 — FMLA / Parental Leave Notification Email

You are an HR professional. Write an email to an employee who has requested or indicated they need FMLA or parental leave.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Leave type: [FMLA / State family leave / Parental leave / Medical leave]
- Requested leave start date: [Date]
- Expected return date (if known): [Date or "TBD"]
- State: [State – some states have additional protections beyond federal FMLA]
- Whether they are eligible for FMLA (must have 12 months tenure, 1250 hours worked, company 50+ employees): [Yes / No / To be confirmed]
- Pay during leave: [e.g., "leave is unpaid under FMLA" / "company provides 6 weeks paid parental leave" / "eligible to use accrued PTO during leave"]
- What paperwork is needed: [e.g., "medical certification form must be submitted within 15 days" / "none for parental leave"]
- Benefits during leave: [e.g., "health insurance continues during FMLA leave at current contribution rates"]
- HR contact for questions: [Your Name, Email, Phone]

Write an email that:

1. Acknowledges their request with care and without judgment
2. Confirms or outlines their eligibility
3. Explains the key terms: pay, benefits, duration, return expectations
4. Lists any required paperwork and deadlines
5. Provides a clear HR contact for follow-up questions

Subject line + full email. Tone: Supportive, clear, professional.

Prompt 23 — Workplace Complaint Acknowledgment Letter

You are an HR professional. Write an acknowledgment letter to an employee who has submitted a workplace complaint or grievance.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Complaint Type (general category only – do not include details in the letter):
 - [] Harassment / hostile work environment
 - [] Discrimination
 - [] Manager misconduct
 - [] Workplace safety concern
 - [] Policy violation by a colleague
 - [] Other: [describe briefly for context, not included in letter]
- Date complaint was received: [Date]
- Investigation process: [e.g., "HR will conduct a confidential investigation / an impartial investigator will be assigned / investigation expected to take 2-3 weeks"]
- Retaliation warning: [Include – company prohibits retaliation against complainants]
- Confidentiality note: [Include – information will be shared only on a need-to-know basis]
- Next steps: [e.g., "you will be contacted for an interview within 5 business days" / "HR will follow up by [date]"]
- HR Contact: [Your Name, Title, Email, Phone]

Write an acknowledgment letter that:

1. Confirms receipt of the complaint with the date
2. Explains the investigation process and expected timeline
3. States explicitly that retaliation is prohibited
4. Assures confidentiality
5. States the next step and when they'll hear back
6. Ends with your direct contact information

Format: Formal letter or email. Tone: Professional, serious, empathetic. The employee took a risk to come forward – they need to feel heard and protected.

Prompt 24 — New Employee Onboarding Welcome Email

You are an HR professional. Write a warm, organized onboarding welcome email for a new employee starting their first day.

Details:

- Employee Name: [Employee Name]
- Job Title: [Job Title]
- Start Date: [Date]
- Work Location: [Office address / Remote – include video call link if remote]
- First day arrival time: [Time] – [or login time for remote]
- Who to ask for or contact on Day 1: [Name and title of their buddy/manager/HR contact]
- First week schedule highlights: [e.g., "Day 1: HR orientation 9am-11am / lunch with team / IT setup / Day 2-3: department onboarding" or "we'll send a full calendar invite separately"]
- Documents to complete before Day 1 (if any): [e.g., "I-9 and W-4 via Workday – link in separate email" or "none – we'll handle in person"]
- Parking / building access instructions: [Instructions or "N/A for remote"]
- What to bring (if anything): [e.g., "valid ID for I-9 verification" or "just yourself!"]
- Company slack/communication tool: [Tool name + how they'll get access]
- Your Name & Contact: [Your Name, Title, Email, Phone]

Write a welcome email that:

1. Opens with genuine excitement about them joining
2. Gives all practical Day 1 logistics clearly (no guessing required)
3. Lists any pre-start tasks
4. Tells them who their first contact will be and how to reach them
5. Closes with enthusiasm and a note that the team is looking forward to having them

Subject line + full email. Warm, organized, and confidence-building.

Prompt 25 — Exit Interview Questions Guide

You are an HR professional. Write a structured exit interview guide to use when an employee is leaving the company voluntarily.

Details:

- Departing Employee's Role: [Job Title]
- Department: [Department]
- Reason for leaving (as stated): [e.g., "new opportunity" / "relocation" / "personal reasons" / "not disclosed yet"]
- Format: [In-person meeting / Video call / Written survey]
- Interviewer: [HR Name & Title]
- Any specific areas of concern to probe (if any): [e.g., "there have been team dynamics issues in this department" / "this is the third resignation in 6 months" / "no specific concern"]

Write an exit interview guide that includes:

OPENING (script for interviewer):

Brief statement about the purpose of the exit interview (confidential, voluntary, used for organizational improvement – not personal).

CORE QUESTIONS (10-12 questions covering):

1. Reason for leaving (probe gently beyond the surface reason)
2. What they valued most about working here
3. What could the company improve (management, culture, processes)
4. Assessment of their manager (diplomatic phrasing)
5. Were they given the tools and resources to do their job?
6. How was the workload and work-life balance?
7. Did they feel recognized and valued?
8. Probe for team dynamics issues if relevant
9. Would they consider returning in the future?
10. Would they recommend the company to others?

CLOSING:

Thank them sincerely. Explain how feedback will be used. Provide transition logistics reminder.

Format as a printable interviewer guide with space for notes after each question.
